

World Environment Day 2026 Climate Champions in Action

On 6 June 2026, ERGON Foundation celebrated World Environment Day in Yercaud through a series of engaging and meaningful activities aimed at promoting environmental responsibility and climate action. Children, youth, and a few migrant workers participated in the programme, which was organized under the theme "Inspired by Nature. For Climate. For Our Future" (#NowForClimate). The activity was officially registered on the World Environment Day Global Map, joining the global movement to protect nature and address climate change.

The celebration included sapling distribution, tree plantation, environmental awareness session, and a pledge-taking ceremony. Participants learned about the importance of protecting the environment, conserving natural resources, and taking action to build a sustainable future.

A major highlight of the event was the #NowForClimate Climate Dance Challenge, where children enthusiastically participated and creatively expressed their commitment to climate action. Through dance and movement, they shared an important message about caring for the environment and inspired others to take action.

The tree plantation activity saw active participation from children, youth, and migrant workers. During the event, participants received saplings and planted them together, demonstrating their commitment to creating a greener future. A total of 21 saplings were planted, including Badam, Manila Tamarind, Avocado, Jamun, Hibiscus, and other colourful flowering plants and tree saplings. These plants were selected to enhance the green cover and biodiversity of the area while creating a healthier environment for the community.

All participants took an environmental pledge to plant trees, protect natural resources, and keep their surroundings clean. Their enthusiasm and active involvement reflected a shared commitment to creating a greener and healthier future.

Through learning, participation, and collective action, the World Environment Day celebration in Yercaud successfully brought together people of different age groups and backgrounds. The event demonstrated that every small action can make a positive difference in protecting our planet and building a more sustainable future for generations to come.
