

Building Health, Building Hope Together for a Healthier Community

Ergon Foundation successfully organized its first community welfare initiative - a Medical Camp for migrant construction workers on 15th May 2026 at Avadi, Paruthipattu, Chennai.

The camp was conducted with the aim of creating health awareness and providing basic medical support to workers in the construction sector. Around 100 workers participated in the camp and benefited from the medical services and awareness sessions conducted during the programme.

The medical team from Sri Lalithambigai Medical College and Hospital (SLMCH) played an important role in the success of the camp. The team included Dr. Shankar from Community Medicine, Dr. Vaishnavi from Dermatology, Dr. Sunetha from Dentistry, and Optometrist Ms. Neha. Mr. D. Venkatesa Perumal, PRO of the institution, along with medical staff members and interns, also supported the smooth conduct of the programme.

During the camp, general health check-ups including blood pressure, height, and weight screening were carried out for all participants. Medical consultations and basic health guidance were also provided to promote preventive healthcare and overall well-being.

A special screening programme for jaundice, HIV, and sexually transmitted diseases (STDs) was conducted by the Tamil Nadu State AIDS Control Society team. Mrs. Parveen Sultana conducted an awareness session on men's health, personal hygiene, safe health practices, and sexual health awareness. The session also highlighted the importance of preventive healthcare and included guidance on the proper use of condoms to promote better health awareness among the workers.

Ms. Sangeetha, staff member of Ergon Foundation, was also present during the medical camp and supported the initiative.

Ergon Foundation sincerely thanks all the doctors, healthcare professionals, supporting staff, volunteers, and participants for their valuable contribution in making this first initiative meaningful and successful. The Foundation looks forward to continuing similar community welfare activities in the future.
